Sustainable SME Toolkit · Nigeria

Compliance deadlines in Nigeria are spread across the year and administered by multiple agencies — CAC, FIRS, your state IRS, NESREA, NSITF, PENCOM, your state's ministry of environment, your local government, and your industry regulator if any. Missing any of them can trigger fines, account freezes, or loss of operating licences, and the penalties are usually disproportionate to the original obligation.

The calendar below is a generic template — confirm exact due dates with the relevant agency, especially for state-level items which vary by state. Items marked as monthly recur every month; items marked as annual fall due in the month shown.

Three practical suggestions will help you get value from this calendar. First, block out one day per month (the first working day is ideal) to handle the monthly obligations. Second, set calendar reminders two weeks before each annual deadline. Third, designate one person in the business as the compliance owner — diffusion of responsibility is how deadlines get missed.
